Cameron Chamber board of directors Monday endorsed application for funding part of a proposed one-day series of concerts here by the Dallas Symphony Orchestra next winter-spring season.

It was a far-seeing decision, and a unanimous one, for the Symphony might be able to appear during Folk Fete if it were set a bit earlier than mid-June.

Cameron School trustees are studying possibilities of helping send as many students as possible to hear the Symphony, which offers a selection from five concerts which would serve all kinds of tastes, from youth to adult in pops, classics, waltzes, a variety of music by the 85-piece orchestra, directed by Anshel Brusilow, former concertmaster of Philadelphia Philharmonic Orchestra.

Two student concerts are contemplated, for as many youngsters in the Cameron area who might not otherwise ever see a major symphony perform. It will appear at Cameron National Guard Armory. An evening concert is scheduled for adults in the Milam area and it will be entirely different from the programming for students during the day.

Symphonies are not all that formal in their presentation. Students might be surprised what a variety of music is possible with full symphony. It is something to look forward to and a first for Cameron, we understand.

Thanks to this forward view, things like the Dallas Symphony are possible from now on.

112-112-112

In another musical vein, the Milano Booster Club is sponsoring a stage show benefit 8 p.m. Saturday which stars Junior Samples, one of the stars of TV's "Hee Haw". Other stars of country-western music will appear for the benefit for the Milano Schools.

That is the kind of county we have, sophisticating in its musical tastes--ranging from country-western to the symphonic form.

That is the kind of world we live in, a wide variety of tastes, each having their place and each having their value to a segment of people.

We always understood that music is a "universal language". And certainly, it adds a dimension to life which would be a void otherwise.

112-112-112

It is a changing world, indeed, one in which major symphonies and big name country music cross paths in Central Texas and Milam County. It is even likely a lot of people are interested in both, if they are once exposed.

United Fund Sets Budget

A budget of $10,400 -- $350 more than last year's -- has been set by United Fund directors for 1972. Agencies receiving funds include Little League $300, Red Cross $2,300, Salvation Army $2,100, Boy Scouts $2,700, Girl Scouts $1,700, Community Center $100, Day Care Center $1,000, and $200 for expenses.

A kickoff dinner for United Fund drive workers will be held Sept. 29. The annual fund drive will start October 4 with Bruce Crook chairman of the house to house campaign and Delbert Burlison heading the downtown phase.

Cameron Little League Association is one of the seven agencies that will benefit from the United Fund drive, set for October.

Participation in the Little League summer baseball program has been increasing steadily for the past several years, to the point where one baseball field is no longer able to handle all the games.

Association members have made plans to build two new ballfields in a location near Cameron Airpark. Estimated cost of the new facility is $15,000 for the two fields.

Plans call for chain link fencing around the fields, restrooms, bleachers and concession stand.

During the past summer, 19 teams were using the old ball field with 15 games a week scheduled. A high school baseball program added more youths using the old field.

The old field will be used for Pony League and adult teams, with Minor League, Little League, and girls softball teams using the new fields.

The Evening Lions Club has agreed to sponsor and help build the new fields. Local civic clubs have donated to the building fund and a door to door drive was conducted this summer. The drive will continue next summer, officials said.

Individual donations are being accepted and may be made to special accounts at Citizens National Bank and First National Bank.

Coffee To Honor School Personnel

The coffee will follow the Cameron-Rockdale football game and will be held in the Homemaking Building on the Yoe High Campus.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Yoemen Readying For 'Battle Of Bell'

By Marilyn Hauk

Friday night the Cameron Yoemen will battle the Rockdale Tigers at Yoe Stadium, for the traditional "Battle of the Bell."

The Tigers have one of the best teams we have played, according to Head Coach Hal Stanislaw. They have a tough defense with eight returning lettermen. Their team is also a large one and in good physical condition.

Yoe will be up against several good running backs. Among them are quarterback Larry Kerlin and halfback Will Ray. All together Rockdale has six returning two year lettermen.

Cameron is handicapped with injuries this week. David Hollas is suffering a knee injury and Jimmy Bailey has been ill.

Workouts this week have been good. Generally the Yoemen are in good physical condition. This is a game they are quite eager to play.

Last Friday night the Yoemen were defeated by a very poised team. In that game Cummings carried the ball twelve times for twenty-two yards, an average of 1.8 yards.

Knight carried the ball nine times for thirty yards, an average of 3.3 yards. Bailey had the ball five times for twelve yards, an average of 2.4 yards. Whiteside took the ball four times for sixteen yards, an average of four yards.

In Passing Cummings completed one pass in eight attempts for a gain of eight yards. Jackie Chubb received the ball one time for a gain of eight yards.

Cummings punted seven times for an average of 29.4 yards.

Timothy N. Titsworth of Cameron Yoe FFA has been nominated to receive the American Farmer Degree, highest degree presented by the National FFA Organization. TITSWORTH was nominated for the degree by the Texas FFA Association and the nomination was approved by the National FFA Board of Directors in a recent meeting held in Washington, D.C. He was one of 470 FFA members nominated to receive the American Farmer Degree which will be presented at the National FFA Convention in Kansas City. The presentation will be made Thursday, October 14, pending a final vote of approval by 113 student delegates who represent FFA members in Convention business sessions.

Titsworth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Titsworth of Cameron, and is currently farming in partnership with his brothers and sister.

He earned the American Farmer Degree on the basis of coop tranining in agri., supervised farming program, and leadership activities such as State Star Greenhand, State Star Chapter Farmer, Lone Star Farmer, National Award Winner in National Resource Development, area III Vice President and many other awards in local, district, area, and state participation. Tim also participated in FFA leadership contests, judging contests, shows and fairs.

Cameron Yoe high school vocational agriculture instructor and FFA advisor are C. Titsworth and Johnie Reeves of Cameron.

The American Farmer Degree is a highly coveted award because it is presented to only one tenth of one percent of the total 427,000 FFA members. It is presented only by the National FFA Organization of the FFA to members who have demonstrated exceptional agricultural and leadership ability.

Each American Farmer Degree recipient will be presented a gold key and certificate by the National FFA Organization. Recipients who attend the convention will also be presented a check from the National FFA Foundation to help pay their travel expenses.

To qualify for the American Farmer Degree FFA members must have advanced through a system of degrees unique to the FFA organization.

Cameron, R'dale To Receive Funds For Employment

Cameron and Rockdale will each receive $3,500 in federal funds to hire unemployed or underemployed for city projects. Thorndale will receive about $1,500 from the federal employment project.

Mayor E. A. Perrin said the grant will be used to hire additional workers in the Street and Sanitary Department and Water and Sewer Department.

Milam is one of five Central Texas counties benefiting from $50,000 in federal funds to help generate new jobs.

The unemployment rate in Milam County is the lowest of the county area which includes Coryell, Hamilton, Lampasas, Mills and Milam.

"A table of employment for the 5 counties worked out by the Texas Unemployment Bureau showed Cameron with 2.4 percent unemployed," Perrin said.

The unemployment rate and severity were factors considered in allocating funds.

Mars Probe Course Reported 'Near Perfect'

HOUSTON

America's latest Mars probe, almost 100 days out in space, has overcome an electronic problem that threatened to exhaust its nitrogen supply before it completed its full one-year mission to the red planet.

Called Mariner-9, the windmill-shaped robot spaceship has covered more than 140 million miles of its voyage of discovery. On November 13 it is due to become the first man-made object to orbit Mars.

But it may not be alone for long. Two giant Soviet spaceships, Mars-2 and Mars-3, each weighing more than four tons compared with Mariner's 2,200 pounds are bound for the same destination, and U. S. space agency (NASA) scientists are betting that the Russian probes will land on Mars while Mariner is still observing it from several hundred miles away -- a spectacular feat of space one-upmanship by the Russians.

NASA, however, aware of the new era of Soviet-American cooperation in space, will seek information on the precise landing spots to help the Americans make some calculations of their own.

Mariner 9 was launched on its arching course on May 30 after a rocket failure made its sister-ship, Mariner 8, crash into the Atlantic.

The single craft has assumed the key objective of the dual mission-- to map about 70 per cent of Mars surface with two television cameras, and radio the pictures back to earth together with data on the atmospheric and surface conditions.

One month into the flight, the California Institute of Technology's jet propulsion laboratory (J.P.L.) at Pasadena, reported that a fault had developed which was causing Mariner to use nitrogen faster than planned in its attitude stabilizing jet.

Last week, however, scientists at J.P.L. cheerfully announced that the problem had right itself. A sun sensor had been issuing attitude corrections which were "too crude," a spokesman explained. But as the spaceship moved further away from the sunlight, the sensor began working properly and the gas usage stabilized at a normal rate.

Although Mariner's journey will cover 248 million miles the probe will be less than 47 million miles from earth when it catches up with Mars after a six-month journey.

The 100-days mark was passed Sept. 7, and Mariner's course is reported near perfect.

NASA scientists studying data returned by previous Mariner spacecraft which flew by the planet have concluded that although its environment appears harsh, Mars could support some form of life.

Drs. Cyril Ponnamyeruza and Harold P. Klein said neither the thin Martian atmosphere nor the temperature range -- 85 degrees above zero to 112 degrees below -- ruled out living organisms. Although there was little or no trace of surface water, it could exist beneath the surface in the form of permafrost or ice.

But at least one of their fellow-biologists says he would prefer not to find life on Mars. Dr. Wolf Vishniac, of the University of Rochester in New York, who is helping design the life detection experiments for America's first Viking Mars-landing craft in 1976, said his ideal would be to find Mars in a pre-life condition.

This would mean the surface material contained lots of organic molecules which had not yet evolved into self-reproducing compounds.

"Thus we would be able to examine a planet that has not been turned topsy-turvy by living organisms the way earth has. . .we might be able to get some idea of what the earth was like before living organisms were present.

"If I had a choice, I would prefer not to find living organisms," he said.

School Planning: Timely Action...

Congratulations to Cameron School Board leaders for entering a comprehensive planning program for CISD schools.

Alternatives are numerous for what needs to be added or done. And these alternatives may change within but a few years. Professional building counsel will be helpful to the CISD trustee building committee in projecting far enough ahead of needs and change and incorporating present facilities.

A preliminary study will likely cover much of the ground the Board has discussed, but a projection will likely produce alternatives not anticipated by any but men who have planned or built quite a number of school plants.

Schools all around are undergoing expansion programs, namely Rosebud-Lott, Caldwell nearest us and in recent years Taylor, Temple, Waco, Brenham at a little further distance.

Such advance thinking and planning can be implemented as need, which is considerable here in the next few years, arises. And change along the next five to 10 years can be instituted in a continuing program.

Like the 20-year projection the City of Cameron is instituting, a growth and building projection for Cameron Schools is timely and well conceived.

Renewal 'Ringing Outward'...

As hoped and anticipated, material changes are occurring not only downtown, but throughout the community following the first relocations and renewal in downtown Cameron.

Already apparent are movements into empty buildings surrounding what will be the mall - courthouse square Buildings are being remodeled or reduced to useable size in several blocks at this moment.

So it is not just one block or a few blocks benefiting from the downtown program. It is an expansion that is reaching throughout the nine-block area and beyond as relocation modernization follows removal of buildings in the focal point, the mall area.

This is another result of planning and following through. We can see how renewal is much more than tearing down, but only a first stage of building up this county seat, probably beyond the hopes of many who otherwise favored downtown modernization for years.

We say once again downtown renewal is the stone dropped in the middle of the pool of water, its ripples ringing outward to the shores or city limits of Cameron.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

REP. (Mrs.) BELLA S. ABZUG (N.Y.) ". . . A new political force was born at an extraordinary meeting which was held. . .in the Nation's Capital.

"More than 300 women from 26 States assembled to organize a national women's political caucus. It's goal, as the conference call said, was "to START MOVING WOMAN-POWER OUT OF THE TALKING STAGE AND INTO POLITICAL POLITICS."

"The conference set as one of its goals representation of women in all levels of government, in both elective and appointive office, in NUMBERS PROPORTIONATE TO OUR PERCENTAGE IN THE POPULATION.

"Women are 53 percent of the American people. They turn out at the polls in larger numbers than men. They do most of the drudge work in politics. But of the 435 Members in the House, only 12 are women. Out of 100 Senators, one is a woman. There are no women Govenors. few big city women mayors, only a scattering of women in the State and city government, none on the U.S. Supreme Court.

"The women at the conference decided that 1972 is the year to start changing that.

"Certain specific steps were taken. National headquarters are being set up in Washington. A national coordinating council of 21 women, to be enlarged to 25, was elected to serve until a more permanent structure is worked out at a larger conference early next year.

"The national council will be supplemented by an assembly of representatives from each State and territory where local caucuses are in the process of being organized.

"The prime aim of the caucus is to see that women assume their rightful place as decision makers and leaders in American political life and to speak out for life-enhancing priorities.

"The women also agreed that they are prepared to support men candidates who declare themselves ready to fight for these priorities and for the needs and rights of women and all under-represented groups.

"Those elected to the national council include: Fannie Lou Hamer, candidate for Mississippi State Senate; Congresswoman Bella Abzug; Shana Alexander, editor-in-chief, McCall's magazine; Virginia Allen, chairwoman, President Nixon's Task Force on Women's Rights and Responsibilities; Nikki Beare, president, Dade County, Fla., National Organization for Women; Joan Cashin, National Democratic Party of Alabama. . ."

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT

As the National Women's Political caucus is composed of both Democrats and Republicans it will be interesting to observe how they select and endorse candidates and reconcile the political differences. It's a man's size, I mean a woman's size job.—J.C.

Dateline Austin...

Court Decision Leaves Reapportionment In Air

By Bill Boykin

A major court decision last week left up in the air the question of how Texas is to achieve a valid reapportionment act for both houses of its legislature before next year.

State Supreme Court agreed with an August 2 Austin district court finding that a House redistricting bill passed this year is unconstitutional because it unnecessarily split up 23 counties.

The decision left unanswered how the bill should be corrected or if it should be redone before 1973. Basic questions are these:

- Should House reapportionment and state Senate redistricting (left untouched by the Legislature) be the subject of an emergency special session?
- Should the five-member constitutional Legislative Redistricting Board take on the job, since no valid reapportionment was done by the Legislature in the first regular session after the 1970 census?
- Should the Legislature forget about reapportionment before 1972 elections and wait until the 1970 census statistics are all complete and published?

Gov. Preston Smith and Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin once more are on opposite sides of a controversy.

Smith says the Redistricting Board has the "duly constituted responsibility" under the constitution to redistrict, and a special legislative session on reapportionment would be unnecessarily costly.

Martin stated in a brief before the Supreme Court a special session "would seem the only correct possibility, but this, too, could become the subject of litigation."

A High Court ruling in another case challenging the Redistricting Board's authority may hold the key as to whether it can proceed, whether the Legislature must take over now or check the task until 1973.

A note of urgency is injected into the issue by the fact the Board is directed by the constitution to do whatever it is going to do by late October. Furthermore, legislative candidates appear to face a November 7 deadline for establishing residence in the district they choose to represent.

ANTI-POLLUTION PERMIT

Texas Air Control Board has put into operation a far-reaching construction permit system to help control and prevent air pollution.

Since August 30, any industry that will omit air contaminants into the atmosphere must get a Board permit before starting any construction. Similar permits are necessary to modify or change existing contaminant causing facilities.

Permits apply to specific, individual manufacturing processes, not entire industrial plants or complexes. Exceptions for minor contaminant - causing plans will be listed later. Applicants have 60 days after construction is completed to apply for operating permits.

HEALTH STUDY ON

New studies to find ways of meeting health service, staff and facility needs of Texas' rural population will be undertaken by the Research Institute for Systems Development at Texas A&M University.

The study will be conducted in the West Central Texas area, centered around Abilene which has both rural and urban characteristics typical of many regions.

Fewer than half of Texas' 492 hospitals meet federal medicare requirements for health and safety, so the project will focus on health facilities and services considered below medicare standards. Texas has more than twice as many qualified hospitals as any other state.

BOND ISSUE POSTPONED

University of Texas regents postponed until October 22 consideration of an overall plan for marketing the first block of $150 million in bonds authorized for new college construction.

About $30 million in bonds apparently will be sold by December. They are backed by tuition revenues. Money will go to build new institutions of UT at San Antonio, Dallas, Houston, Odessa and El Paso. The bonds were authorized by the 62nd Legislature this year to build newly-authorized institutions.

DAM AUTHORIZED

In spite of opposition by landowners, Texas Water Rights Commission voted to permit construction of a dam on Martin's Creek in Rusk County by three electric power companies.

Dallas Power and Light Company, Texas Electric Service Company and Texas Power and Light Company plan to build the dam 17 miles northeast of Henderson for a major power plant.

Landowners expressed fear the lake created by the dam would flood their pastures, destroy timber and prevent Martin's Creek from continuing to provide water for livestock. The companies pledged to try and prevent or mitigate damage.

D.A. STUDY PENAL CODE

District and county attorneys have launched their own committee study of needed changes in the penal code. They fought a sweeping, controversial revision of the code during the legislative session this year.

District Attorney Tom Hanna of Beaumont was selected as chairman of the committee in the first meeting last week. Prosecutors indicated they prefer a simplified, "more responsive" new code to the version introduced in the 1971 Legislature which had been five years in the making.

INDUSTRIES GET AWARDS

Five Texas industries will receive special 1970 Governor's Industrial Expansion Awards at ceremonies in connection with the Governor's Conference on Industrial Expansion October 13-14 here.

They are Jimmy Dean Meat Company of Plainview, Levi Strauss and Company of Amarillo; Sprayberry Handbags Inc. of Clifton; Gorman Peanuts of Gorman and Vintage Homes Inc. of Breckenridge.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editar:

The dire plight of the cities, according to the newspapers I've been getting hold of lately, is so great what with over-crowding and air pollution that some experts are saying most of them ought to be torn down and built over.

If they do, they'll probably make the same mistake again. I've been saying for years that every city I've seen was built in the wrong place. Invariably it was built where there're too many people. They ought to build them out in the country.

Even so, if they re-locate any, they shouldn't be located on flat ground. Every city ought to be built on a mountain, with the business district on top. This way you'd cut air pollution a full fifty per cent. Drive your car up to work every morning, but cut the motor off and coast back home pollution-free in the afternoon.

While I'm in these easy solutions to thorny problems, why hasn't somebody thought of having all labor contracts expire at the same time? No use shutting the railroads down one month, the automobile industry the next, the airlines the next, etc.

Why not designate one month, say August, it's too hot to work then anyway, as National Strike Month every year and shut the whole country down.

The rest might do us all good.

Speaking of strikes, the recent telephone strike didn't do me any good. Right in the midst of it people could still get me on the phone.

Since I'm not sticking to one subject this week anyway, I notice a lot of people are wrought up because only one man is running for President of South Viet Nam. Judging from what I've read about the place, it may be lucky that even one man wants the job, especially after we pull out.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

To give his family a summertime treat, Ernest piled them into a trailer and drove to a nearby lake. Renting space in a trailer park, he settled down for two carefree weeks.

But on the day of departure, Ernest came down with a galloping case of poison ivy. In fact, it was so severe that he determined to claim damages from the management of the trailer park.

"The poison ivy was growing right there on the premises," Ernest charged in court. "It was up to them, as owners of the land, to get rid of it."

However, the court decided that Ernest had no legal kick coming.

"The city dweller who chooses to spend his vacation in the great outdoors," said the court, "must assume the risks of the outdoors such as mosquitoes, snakes, poison ivy, and other natural conditions not found in the urban communities."

Still, even in the "great outdoors," the vacationer does not assume risks he could not reasonably foresee. In another case, a camper in Yellowstone National Park was bitten by a rambunctious grizzly bear. Park rangers had reason to suspect that a dangerous bear was at large, but they had given the camper no special warning about the situation.

Accordingly, a court held the federal government liable for the accident. The court said the camper should have been given enough facts "to provide an opportunity for an intelligent choice as to whether he wished to incur the risk."

Nor does a vacationer assume the risk of outright negligence by those in charge. Thus:

At a lake resort, a woman bather cut her foot badly on a fragment of glass just offshore. Early that morning, the cleanup man had found and removed several broken bottles on the beach nearby. But he had neglected to find out whether any of the glass had found its way into the water.

The woman later sued the owner of the resort for damages, and the court ruled in her favor. The court said her injury was not due to any hazard of the great outdoors, produced by Nature, but to plain and simple carelessness, produced by man.

Work To Begin On TJC Addition

TEMPLE

Work is expected to begin next week on a new $710,000 fine arts building at Temple Junior College.

A basic contract for $612,831 has been awarded to Cloud Construction Co. of Temple. Formal signing of the contract pends approval by the Fort Worth office of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which is providing $100,000 for the building.

Local taxpayers last October approved a $1.25 million bond issue for construction of the fine arts building and for a new health and physical education building, already under way.

Expansion plans all called for air-conditioning of two campus buildings, and a $65,149 contract was awarded to the Waco firm of Lochridge - Priest Inc. last week for that work.

The new fine arts building will be situated between the Watson Technical Center and Newton Science Building, its massive front facing an existing paved parking lot.

County Agent's Notes

Check Livestock For Screwworm

By Bill McCutchen

ALERT FOR SCREWWORMS

There have been some screwworm outbreaks in Lampasas and San Saba Counties in the last few days. As these counties are further north and west than Milam County outbreaks are highly possible in this area.

I would encourage all Milam County producers to check livestock closely and submit any suspected cases to the Mission Laboratory for identification. We have mailing vials available in the County Extension Office.

EMERGENCY FUNDS

Milam County has been approved for emergency funds as a drouth relief measure. These funds are in addition to regular REAP funds and includes 80% cost share on pipelines, water wells, and stock tanks to eligible landowners. The hitch is that these emergency measures and funds have been approved only through September 30th and the practice must be completed by this date to qualify.

This really poses some problems for the County ASCS Committee and Douglas Buck as they want to make this emergency measure available, but the time limitation will not allow many to line up a contractor and complete the practice by the deadline.

If you have specific questions on those emergency funds, please contact the ASCS office.

COTTON HARVEST

Cotton harvest is well underway in Milam County and I have received several questions on defoliants and dessicants.

As a rule of thumb, it is safe to apply defoliants when 60 percent or more of the bolls are open. Dessicants should be applied when more than 75 percent of the bolls are open under dryland conditions.

Disregarding these recommendations and applying defoliants too early results in reduced yields per acre, a lower micronaire reading, weaker fiber, and a resultingly lower paychecks.

I would remind you that Arsenic Acid is not to be applied within 4 days of harvest. Do not graze treated areas or feed gin trash from treated areas to livestock. Avoid contact with or drift to desirable plants or crops.

CATTLE LOSSES

In visiting with Dr. Titsworth a few days ago he informed me that there have been some cattle losses in the county recently, due presumably to a toxicity in dallisgrass.

The culprit is thought to be the "smut" in the dallisgrass seedhead.

Dr. Titsworth in commenting on the recent VEE outbreak and vaccinations in Milam County said that vaccination is virtually complete. He said that there were a few absentee owners who had not gotten their horses vaccinated.

Dr. Titsworth said that to his knowledge no horses in the county died from VEE and he knew of only two horses that had a reaction to the vaccination. There were no reported reactions to mares-in-foal as was feared possible.

Over 3,000 horses in Milam County were vaccinated.

Ag Committee Approves New Pesticide Legislation

WASHINGTON

The House Committe on Agriculture Friday approved a draft of legislation granting the new Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) broad controls over the manufacture, distribution and use of pesticides.

All pesticides, whether for agricultural use or those like insecticide sprays used in homes, are covered. Fertilizers are not covered.

Following months of public hearings at which federal officials, conservation groups and chemical manufacturers testified, the committee approved a legislative draft and instructed Chairman W. R. (Bob) Poage D-Tex., to introduce it early next week. This clean bill will then be promptly referred back to the committee for expected approval.

The proposed new law actually would be a complete rewriting of the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act, essentially broadening its scope. The EPA authority largely is limited now to seeing that pesticides bear labels showing their chemical makeup and directions as to their use. Under the pending legislation the agency is given strong regulatory powers.

Although FIFRA is federal legislation, it is contemplated that the states will play a new and very important role in its enforcement, and the new provisions authorize the federal government to cooperate with them in various ways, including grants to help finance inspection and enforcement programs.

Here are some of the principal provisions in the new legislation:

1. Classification: All pesticides will come under one of two groups - those for general use, or those for restricted use. Those in the first category include insecticide sprays and other such chemicals which are not dangerous to human beings or the environment. Those in the restricted category are highly toxic to man or the environment and are to be used only by or under the immediate supervision of trained applicators. The applicators themselves will be divided into two groups: commercial and private. Farmers will comprise the great majority of the private applicators.

2. Hearing and review: procedures for registration are set forth. It is provided that an advisory committee named on recommendation by the National Academy of Sciences may be requested by an applicant to pass judgment on issues involved when the EPA has turned down the applicant. The EPA insisted very strenuously that it, not the scientific organization, should select the scientists who will serve on this board.

3. Maximum fine of up to $25,000 and up to a year imprisonment is provided under the criminal penalties section for companies and their responsible officials; up to a $1,000 fine and up to 30 days imprisonment against farmers, who knowingly violate the law. The civil penalties section provides a maximum fine of $5,000 against a company and up to $1,000 against a farmer who has ignored a warning that he was engaging in a prohibited use. (There are no civil penalties under the existing FIFRA provisions.)

4. Appeals from the EPA would go directly to federal Circuit Courts of Appeal, with proceedings based on records in the case compiled at EPA hearings.

5. The President has the authority to exempt federal agencies from being covered by the act if he deems emergency conditions exist where it is in the public interest to use pesticides irrespective of restrictions set forth in the law.

6. The new legislation authorizes the federal law to preempt state and local laws in regard to all labeling and packaging requirements. However, the states may completely ban shipments within their boundaries of restricted pesticides if they want to take such action.

7. Indemnities are authorized for those who have pesticides left on hand if and when the EPA administrator should issue a cancellation of registration. The owner of such banned products would be reimbursed for the fair market value of the pesticide -- which had been made and distributed in the first place only after the EPA administrator had found that its manufacture and use would be safe.

8. The President is directed to prohibit the importation of any agricultural commodities into the United States from a country that does not have at least equal restrictions with respect to the use of pesticides as are enforced in this country. This restriction would apply only in regard to commodities produced in substantial quantities within the continental United States. Thus it would not ally to such items as bananas and coffee. This is substantially the bill introduced by Chairman Poage as H.R. 26. Although the Administration has long expressed opposition to the measure, it was approved by a 25 to 6 vote as a provision in the new bill.

The Chairman stated that he did not know whether the bill would pass or not but he commended the committee for having done a diligent job over many weeks of work and for having produced a bill which would provide maximum protection for the rights of all groups concerned.

Cotton Insects Pose '72 Threat

COLLEGE STATION

Cotton producers who want to be sure of having plenty of boll weevils, bollworms, budworms and pink bollworms in their crop next season are encouraged to delay harvest, stalk destruction and plowing under of crop residue until after frost.

"One way of assuring the survival of these major cotton pests for the 1972 season is to provide them with plenty of food and protection this fall and winter," says Dr. John G. Thomas, Extension entomologist at Texas A&M University.

"However, with the hope that most producers want to avoid this situation, they should consider harvesting as early as possible and shredding stalks and plowing under all cotton debris at least six inches deep."

Extremely high boll weevil populations during August and September have caused extensive losses in many areas of Texas, according to Thomas. In areas where boll weevils have been particularly heavy, growers are encouraged to include an insecticide with their desiccant or phosphate-type defoliant at the time of harvest.

This reduces the number of weevils surviving in the field and later entering diapause or winter hibernation.

The number of pink bollworms observed in cotton fields throughout central and northeast Texas the past few weeks causes real concern for 1972, adds Thomas.

"We have seen larger pink bollworm numbers in these fields this year than at any time in the past decade. Unless producers reduce overwintering pink bollworm numbers through early harvest and thorough stalk destruction, 1972 may very well bring back memories of the early and mid-50's."

There is definitely a cause for concern over the present cotton insect situation and what could develop next year. According to the entomologist, producers can play a key role in reducing insect numbers by harvesting early and destroying cotton stalks as soon as possible.

Household Hints

AN EXCITING SANDWICH

Dress up the old favorite peanut butter sandwich, suggests an Extension consumer marketing specialist. Try adding crispy bacon, apple or banana slices, or marmalade or preserves.

STORING COOKIES

Cookies -- baked or unbaked -- will keep about six months in the freezer, say Extension foods and nutrition specialists. But before freezing them, make sure they are cool. Store them in plastic bags or in sheet wrapping in the freezer.

SUGAR EXPLAINED

Confectioners sugar -- What is it? A very finely ground granulated sugar, according to Extension foods and nutrition specialists. A small percent of cornstarch may be added to prevent caking.

PICKLING FRUITS

Fruit pickles, prepared from whole fruits simmered in a spicy, sweet-sour sirup should be bright in color, of uniform size and tender and firm without being watery. Pears, peaches and watermelon rind can be prepared this way, according to Gwendolyne Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist.

YARD OF THE MONTH - Mr. and Mrs. William F. Arthur, 704 E. 10th St. accept the September Yard of the Month award presented this week by the Fleur de lis Garden Club. Selection was made on the basis of color harmony, landscape design and over-all appearance.

Fashion Picture

Hot Pants: A Craze That Didn't Happen Say Fashion Watchers

LONDON

Hot pants may figure in fashion history as the craze that never really happened.

Widely touted by designers as one of the most important developments of the postwar years, their popularity never really matched that of the miniskirt and, in major fashion centers, they are definitely on the way out.

Hot pants do not seem to have caught on greatly in the United States where they are now seen mainly worn by teenagers or middle-aged women.

Many businesses and restaurants have banned the style and one New York advertising agency circulated a directive to female employees advising "If in hot pants do not stay-- and don't expect any pay."

On the whole, the style is declining in the U. S. with most fashion writers describing it as a one-season fad.

In Paris, the trend has also declined.

One reason could be that most Parisian prostitutes have adopted hot pants and boots as a uniform, causing other women to shy away from them for obvious reasons.

Nonetheless, still has a more liberal attitude than Spain or Italy and shorts in church have been a relatively common sight in Paris this summer.

Hot pants have even been seen at such famous churches as the Madeleine and Notre Dame.

In Italy, the Roman Catholic Church has strongly criticized hot pants and banned anyone wearing them from entering church.

Despite this, hot pants are commonly seen on the streets and the press is all in favor of them.

In the only recorded legal incident over the fashion a magistrate in Palermo, Sicily, charged a 27-year-old Danish girl with indecent exposure.

In Spain, hot pants have caught on with teenage girls and, so far, have drawn no comment from the church or government. This could be explained by the fact that hot pants in Madrid tend to be longer than those in other European capitals.

According to people in the dress trade, hot pants never really caught on in London and shops were left badly overstocked, which finally caused them to bring the garments down to cost price.

Hot pants were banned from the royal enclosure at Ascot race track in June, although one lady managed to sneak in wearing a pair under a split-front maxi-dress. The dress blew open when she was following closely behind Queen Elizabeth bringing muffled gasps from more conservative guests.

Hot pants swept through Denmark with the coming of the early summer sunshine and swept out again with the autumn sales.

Stores, obviously sensing the end of a trend, were selling them off with price cuts up to 75 percent.

In Communist countries, hot pants have received a mixed reception.

They have yet to come to Russia in any significant quantities and are unlikely to be popular for reasons of climate and conservatism.

In Warsaw, however, hundreds of attractive brown-legged Polish girls sauntering on the streets left no doubt that 1971 was hot pants year in Poland.

In Prague too, hot pants came to dominate the fashion scene. Worn mostly by the 15 to 35 age group, hot pants combined with the miniskirt, all but pushed out midi and maxiskirts -- at least as far as summer wear was concerned.

As might have been expected, hot pants scored some of their biggest successes in Latin American countries where the males have a reputation for appreciation of the female figure.

There appears to be tacit acceptance, however, that hot pants are not appropriate for church-going.

In Mexico City, on the other hand, a few teenagers are beginning to wear hot pants but most girls seem happy to stick to the miniskirt.

In Japan, they have caught on to an extent but in India they are nowhere to be seen. In most African countries, hot pants simply aren't seen at all. One exception is in Lagos, Nigeria, where the style has become popular among teenagers and unmarried women.

GREAT SPORTS — Fall's neat wrap-up: the pant coat. Koret of California does it in wide wale cotton corduroy sparked with leather-like trim. The matching no-waist pants are styled with fit and flare.

Memorial Service For Francis Cox

Friends and former student of the late Francis Cox held a memorial service at 9:30 a.m. Sunday at Oak Hill Cemetery.

Cox, band director at Yoe High School for 25 years, died in September 1967.

In a brief eulogy, Gwen Ivy cited Cox as a man who worked with and helped many of the youth of Cameron. "He took time to listen to his young people, to counsel and to guide them," she said, and added "He demanded the best conduct from band members and got it because of the deep respect we had for him."

Flowers were placed at the grave by former band students and a closing prayer was given by Cathy Price.

Six County Area Receives Criminal Justice Grants

AUSTIN

Two criminal justice action grants totaling $74,166 for the area served by the Central Texas Council of Governments, Belton, were approved today by Governor Preston Smith.

The money will come from the Criminal Justice Council, which oversees statewide law enforcement planning and administers funds from the U.S. Department of Justice for crime control projects in Texas.

One grant, for $36,086, will go to Bell County Mental Health/Mental Retardation Center to provide diagnostic and consultation services for courts and probation departments in the six-county area. These counties are Hamilton, Mills, Lampasas, Coryell, Bell and Milam.

Local matching contributions of $14,678 in kind and $2,952 in cash will assist the project.

Included in the services to all courts in the region will be comprehensive psychiatric and psychological examinations to aid in pre-sentence evaluations.

This project actually is an expansion (to include adult offenders) of one funded in 1970 for the Bell County Juvenile Court and Juvenile Probation Department. During the first grant period the county made 86 diagnostic evaluations of juveniles and provided more than 600 hours of consultation and treatment.

Central Texas Council of Governments also will receive $38,080 for a regional police management study. Comprehensive surveys will be made for the cities of Temple, Killeen, Belton, Copperas Cove and Harker Heights and for the Bell County Sheriff's Department.

The other five counties and cities served by CTCOG will be surveyed, but only as relates to regional coordination and cooperation. Local matching funds of $7,250 in cash and $13,616 in kind will be provided.

BRIDGES CAN HAPPEN!

Not all bridges are built. When the sea pounds its relentless waves against a wall of rock . . . when the icy crust of a glacier spans a mountain chasm . . . when a giant of the forest falls across a stream . . . bridges simply happen.

Here perhaps is the parable of God's kind of engineering. Seemingly there are no calculations, no blueprints, no construction equipment. But results man can behold with awe and reverence.

Yet some men are so wrapped up in their human projects they simply forget that God accomplishes anything . . . until their errors begin to show . . . their bridges start to crumble. Then they need Someone to stop the collapse.

It makes better sense to work with God in all that we build — and [illegible]hat happens. The Church has been man's greatest source of help across the span of centuries.

Midway Nips Rogers In Opener

Rogers will have a very young and inexperienced ball club as they have but five seniors, according to Coach Donald Godwin. At times Rogers will probably start seven sophomores on the offensive and defensive teams combined.

Running backs that have looked good this year include Lucas Jimenez, a 2 year letterman; Glen Smith, Tommy Douglas and Marcus Wilde. Donny Reese, Mike Gunter. Dearl Crawford, and Jamie Clowers are veterans in the line, Godwin said.

Rogers lost the opener to a strong AA ball club in Waco -- Midway 50-24, however there were some bright spots. This week Rogers takes on another very tough outfit in the Rosebud-Lott combination.

Head Coach Donald Godwin has released the following roster. Varsity includes Ricky Gommert, 5'8", '40, Jr., QB; David McMillian, 5'7", 120, Jr., QB; Mike Green, 4'11", 150, Soph., QB.

Marcus Wilde, 5'5", 138, Soph., Tommy Douglas, 5'7", 150, Soph., David Morgan, 5'8", 141, Sr., and Lucas Jimenez 5'6", 144, Soph. are Halfbacks.

Fullbacks are Carl Ashcraft 5'7", 145, Soph., and Glenn Smith 5'6", 162, Soph.

Ronald Psencik 5'9", 150, Soph., and Charles Green 5'11", 140, Soph. are Centers.

Guards include James Henson 5'11", 150, Jr., Gary Roberson 5'6", 140, Jr., Danny Weems 5'10", 154, Soph., and Jamie Clowers 5'11", 225, Sr.

Tackles are Jesse Martinez 5'8", 195, Sr., Mike Gunter 5'10", 178, Jr., Joe Freeman 5'10", 162, Sr., Dearl Crawford 5'11", 162, Sr., Mike Mikeska 6'3", 228, Soph., and Bobby Henson 5'10", 166, Soph.

Robert Skrhak 6'0", 158, Jr., Duane Driver 5'11", 156, Jr., and Danny Reese 6'1", 192, Sr. are Ends.

Assistant Coaches are Elton Ramthun and Harley Doggett.

Badgers Roster, Season Schedule

The Buckholts Badgers began their 1971 football season by defeating the Milano Eagles on their home field 44 to 40 Friday night.

The Badgers were first to score on a pass from quarterback Steve Mendoza to left end Carl Thomascik in the first quarter. Halfback Larry Orsag kicked for the extra points. Buckholts favored 8-0 at the end of the first quarter.

The Badgers opened the second quarter scoring when Orsag ran 18 yards behind excellent blocking for a touchdown. The PAT try failed.

Milano rallied and came up with the next three consecutive touchdowns. Mike Williams made the first two on 25 and 65 yard runs. Doyle Hartley's first attempt at the PAT succeeded but failed the second time. Bill Mewis ran 15 yards for the next Eagle touchdown with Hartley making the PAT.

Buckholts wrapped up the first half on Glen Roesler's 15 yard run touchdown. The try for extra points failed and the scoreboard showed 22-20 Milano's favor at the half.

The Badgers made a comeback in the third quarter on two touchdowns by Steve Mendoza. The PATs failed as did all of both Buckholts and Milano's tries in the second half.

Mike Williams made Milano's last touchdown pushing over the 1 yard line. The Badgers called it a victory when Ricky Mendoza caught a 12 yard pass from Steve for the last touchdown of the game.
